

I think it would be a grave injustice for the FCC to preempt Indiana's telephone privacy law. Since the Indiana law went into effect, the number calls received have been reduced drastically. I am pleased that the FCC wishes to take action to reduce unwanted calls, however, the FCC should not diminish the hard work of Indiana state lawmakers. The Indiana law works! The FCC may establish minimum guidelines, but never lessen the effect of state law.